

QUESTIONS ABOUT NARRATIVE THERAPY: studying the craft and innovative history of narrative therapy interviewing with Stephen Madigan PhD (Vancouver School For Narrative Therapy)

Dates: Friday 2nd & Saturday 3rd March 2012

Time: 9.30am - 5 pm

Cost: $280

Venue: Crows Nest Centre, Crows Nest, Sydney

The two day-long workshop is for everyone interested in exploring the richly textured craft of narrative therapy questions. The workshop highlights a wide variety of questions (and categories of questions) used in narrative therapy practice. Stephen outlines how each therapeutic question asked has a politic, purpose, position, temporality, specific grammar and connects with a theoretical history. Stephen guides the learner to experience therapeutic questions 'all the way through' by a close up step-by-step analysis of his current video-tapes working with couples, trauma, bulimia, anxiety, worry etc. He will also demonstrate narrative practice questions through a live therapy session.

This workshop will be useful and simulating for both those experienced with narrative therapy and to students newly engaging with narrative theory and practice.

Stephen Madigan PhD lives in Vancouver, Canada and is the Director of the Vancouver School for Narrative Therapy. He is an award-winning therapist and author of the 2011 APA published book entitled Narrative Therapy – theory and practice.
